Publisher to Speak at CWC

The publisher of Ramparts Magazine, which has made something of a career of nosing out Central Intelligence Agency involvement in U.S. college activity, is scheduled to be in Denver Tuesday for a speech at Colorado Woman's College.

Edward M. Keating will kick off a CWC symposium Tuesday on "The New Left and the American Consensus." His talk, titled "The Meaning of the New Left," will be at 9:30 a.m. in Pulliam Auditorium in Treat Hall on the campus, E. 19th Ave. and Pontiac St.

Other speakers on the schedule are socialist Tom Kahn, who has been arrested in civil rights demonstrations in Baltimore and New York, and Dr. Philip Rieff, professor of sociology at the University of Pennsylvania. Kahn will talk at 11 a.m. and Rieff at 1:30 p.m.

INFORMAL TALKS

All three will meet with students in informal sessions in the afternoon then participate in a round-table discussion and question-answer session at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

The symposium, sponsored jointly by CWC students and academic departments, is being held on four successive Tuesdays. This Tuesday's, however, is the only all-day session and the only one for which classes will be dismissed.

An introductory meeting has been held and two more will be held the evenings of Feb. 23 and March 7.

Ramparts, which has been highly critical of the CIA and U.S. policy in Vietnam, in April 1966 exposed the role of the CIA in a Michigan State University project in Vietnam.

The magazine last week broke the story in its March issue that the National Student Association received funds from the CIA from the early 1950s until last year.

Other symposium participants as listed by the symposium sponsors:

Feb. 28—Dr. Charles P. Beall, professor of political science, University of Denver; Dr. William B. Green, chaplain and professor of religion at CWC; Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher of The Denver Post; William Tucker, Colorado assistant attorney general.
